The cellar alley

The first vaults without press houses were built in Hlohovec in rear parts of farm houses - nowadays, in two vault lanes of the village housing more than 150 vaults. Šulaperk is a very popular vault lane, with extensive group of ground cellars with press rooms on the hill. The vault colony U kerchova is interesting thanks to a long, probably Haban cellar. The large underground labyrinth was divided by partition walls and equipped with side entrances - so there were created several small cellars, serving to a dozen of owners.

Undoubtedly, the Border Castle (Hraniční zámek) is the most notable building of the village, built in Classical style on pilots and grates on the Hlohovecký pond bank in 1826 - 1827, based on design of Josef Kornhäusel by the brick layer Josef Popellack.
